

A toy model of fractional transport of cancer cells

A. Iomin

Department of Physics, Technion, Haifa, 32000, Israel

Abstract

A simple mathematical model is proposed to study the influence of cell fission on transport. The model describes fractional, in time, tumor development, which is an one dimensional continuous time random walk (CTRW). The model is relevant for both solid and diffusive cancers consideration.